ROMERO ASSAILS THE QUEEN.

Publicly Insults Her and Describes General Weyler as Being the Grandest of Living
Spaniards.

By Frank Marshall White.

(Copyright, 1897, by W. R. Hearst.)

Madrid, Nov. 8.—The Imparcial publishes to-day telegram from New York, quoting the Madrid dispatches printed in the Journal of Friday concerning the contents of General Woodford's second note to the Spanish Government and the latter's answer thereto. The Imparcial, in its editorial columns, moreover, praises the general information of the Journal from Washington and Madrid as always reliable, and complains bitterly of the policy of the Spanish Government in endeavoring to keep secret its negotiations with the United States. It declares that this policy of mystery is bound to create suspicion and distrust on the part of the public here with regard to the Government.

The Epoch and other evening papers reproduce the editorial article of the Imparcial, as well as its cablegrams from New York quoting the Journal's Madrid dispatches, published from here, as well as its editorial utterances, have been characterized by a thoroughly American feeling and by expressions of warm sympathy for the Cubans. This tribute to the Journal on the part of the leading organs of the Madrid press is as remarkable as it is unprecedented.

Don Romero Robledo, the former Conservative Minister and leader of the Conservative machine, went out of his way today to attack the Queen Regent, whose secret foe he has always been in consequence of his undiluted hatred of the official corruption and administrative dishonesty, of which he was the impersonification and champion. He convoked his friends at a meeting in which he made a speech officially separating himself from that portion of the Conservative party which has promised its support to Sagasta, and vehemently abusing ex-Premier Azcaraga, Pidal and other prominent Conservatives who have now joined Silvela, the leader of the Conservative dissidents, and of that portion of the party which is opposed to the machine. During the course of his remarks he charged the Queen with so far forgetting her constitutional obligations as to personally advise the Conservatives to join Silvela, and said: "I would wish to consider the assertion that the Queen has given such advice as a mere piece of calumny. But if she has done so I hereby declare that I am indifferent to any such attacks, and that I am above being injured thereby."

The last part of Don Romero Robledo's speech was devoted to the extravagant praise of General Weyler, with whom he declared he would ally himself politically on his return to Spain, and whom he professes to consider as the "grandest" of his countrymen. He likewise condemned in the strongest fashion the antonomical reforms conceded by the Government to Cuba, claiming that "Spain is going to spill her blood, and to complete her ruin solely for the purpose of helping the Cuban autonomists, who have been the cause of all our trouble."

Only about 350 Conservatives, of whom but fifty were Senators and Deputies, attended the meeting.

Ocean Greyhounds are breaking records all the time. The world looks on with astonishment. No record equals the Journal's October gain in "wants"—14,577 more printed than October last year.

DISLIKES OUR METHODS.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain Disapproves of New York's Municipal Election.

London, Nov. 8.—The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, who was installed last Wednesday as Lord Rector of Glasgow University, speaking this evening at the banquet of the Glasgow Corporation, contrasted municipal institutions in Great Britain with those in the United States.

He said that in New York the government of three millions of people had been handed over for four years to "a party whose object it was to get the greatest amount of spoil." The success of the British system and the failure of the American, he continued, were to be found in the different ways in which officials were treated. It was necessary, in order to have the best possible officials, that they should be "tremendously exact for gross proved offences," they must be "selected absolutely without regard to their political opinions," and "must be paid the market price for their services."

Lord Mayor Installed.

London, Nov. 8.—The new Lord Mayor of London, Mr. Horatio David Davies, member of Parliament for Chatham, was formally installed in office at the Guildhall to-day, with the usual ceremonial, succeeding Sir George Fandell Phillips. The ancient custom of presenting the elected Chief Magistrate of London to the representatives of the sovereign and to the people, known as Lord Mayor's Day, will be observed to-morrow with great ceremony.

ONE OF THE MILLVILLE GRAVE ROBBERS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN A WOMAN.

Attempt Made to Open the Coffin Six Weeks Ago, When the Name-Plate Was Torn Off and Sent to the Husband.

Husband and Children Had Turned Mrs. Tilton from the Family Home Years Ago; She Went to Live in a Lonely Hut and Died Suddenly.

ED.
LODER.

MRS. PHOEBE
TILTON.

WHERE SHE DIED.

POSITION
OF GRAVE
MARK ON
FENCE.

THAT the grave of Mrs. Phoebe Tilton, of Millville, N. J., which was so hor-ribly desecrated on Sunday, was opened six weeks ago, but that the ghoul was frightened away before they had done more than begin to smash in the coffin lid, adds a new element of interest to the mysterious crime. At that attempt, the name-plate was torn off, and sent by mail to the husband. The family could not even guess at the identity of the perpetrator of what then seemed to be only a ghoulish joke.

Add to the horrible features of the crime the fact that in all probability one of the ghouls was a woman, and the mystery deepens. There are small footprints at the grave side, such as would be made by a woman's shoe. The question that puzzles the police and every one else is, what motive could a woman have in robbing a grave?

No arrest has yet been made for the digging open of the grave on Sunday, and the fiendish butchery of the body. It was learned yesterday that the axe with which the coffin was opened, and the fence chopped away had been stolen from the wood-yard of a man living near the cemetery, and the spades had been stolen from a tool box at the cemetery gate.

How the Deed Was Done.
Close investigation yesterday revealed the exact procedure of the perpetrators of the deed. It was shortly after midnight on Saturday that they opened the grave, and the sand caved in so rapidly that they were compelled to throw much of it through the slats of the great picket fence, to keep it from stopping their work. With the fence, and the ghoul made a hole in the fence, and were about to drag the body through, when it evidently occurred to them that as they were going to take it beyond the farther side of the cemetery, they might just as well drag it along the inside of the fence, where it could easily be handled.

There were two of the grave robbers.
That is certain. From the size of the footprints, it is probable that one was a woman, and the other a man. They wore clothes, they dragged it by means of strips of muslin around its ankles to the further cemetery fence, the head of the corpse plunged a furrow down the road.

Body Was Dragged.
A large, square hole was chopped in the picket fence, the body was pushed through, and then the robbers resumed that horrible drag. The path was plainly marked, yesterday, even after hours of soaking rain.
For more than a quarter of a mile, right through a wilderness of scrub forest, the body was taken. It was bright moonlight and the ghastly procession moved through the wood.

The two ghoul laid the body out between some saplings on a sloping hillside, and there, a mile distant from any house, carried away the body with a sharp knife, and carried away the heart, the lungs and stomach.

The trace of their footprints led to a little brook, two hundred rods away, and thence they clambered over on a warring log. On the further side of the brook the trail could easily be picked out again. It led to a lonely roadway, in which were fresh wheel tracks. These led to a main road, and there were lost. That the crime was committed by persons thoroughly familiar with the ground is certain.

History of the Dead Woman.

The history of Mrs. Tilton is of dramatic interest. A dozen years ago she had a comfortable home. Her husband adored her; her three children loved her; she was one of the handsomest women in Millville, and a society favorite. Her husband and her children are still alive, but for years they have avoided her name. She had lived on in the town that had been her home from childhood, but almost every person there shunned her.

She was buried in Potter's Field.
It was twelve years ago that Tilton, the husband, learned the facts that made him turn his handsome wife from the family home, and her descent, which was at first gradual, at length became rapid.

Round about Millville is a remarkable country. There are miles of sandy waste, covered by tangled forest growth, threaded by devious wood roads, sparsely dotted by isolated houses and still more isolated hamlets.

In the worst part of the entire region, on the very edge of an impassable swamp, near Jessie's Bridge, nine miles from Millville, a father and son, Zeke and Ed. Loder, made their home, and two years ago Mrs.
Tilton went to make the third member of the household. The nearest neighbor shun-

WHERE BODY WAS FOUND.

ned the place, and the three lived a reckless and lonely life. The place was unspeakably filthy. Fragments of clothing took the place of half of the little window panes, and on the floor of the downstairs room was a litter of every sort of rubbish. There was one filthy sleeping room upstairs.

Her Dreary, Hopeless Life.

Ragged and unkempt, the once handsome and popular woman looked forth from that home on a dreary area of swamp land and arid sand.

Four months ago she was taken suddenly ill, and the son put her in his crazy old wagon, with its parts tied together by ragged ropes, and carried her to another but in the very outskirts of Millville, where a man named Albert Norton, known as John Loder, and his wife, eked out a wretched existence. This was a single room for cooking, eating and sleeping, but for the last year of her life the sole recreation of Mrs. Tilton had been to visit there. She and the younger Loder and the Loders would hold carnival for days in succession.

DOTTED LINE
SHOWS WHERE BODY WAS DRAGGED

To this miserable hut Loder carried her when she was taken ill. He left her there on a July afternoon, saying that he would come back and bring a doctor. He brought no doctor, and did not come back till after her death, which took place within twelve hours after he had left her there.

County Physician Thompson viewed the body, and said the woman had died from natural causes. He held no autopsy, although the woman died suddenly and without medical attendance.

Suspicious Whisperings.
But neighbors of the Loders whispered suspiciously about the woman's sudden death, and among the lonely dwellers in the swamp and sand wilderness there was much conjecture.

If, however, there was anything irregular about the woman's death in the way of suicide or otherwise, any possible investication has now been effectively checked by the carrying away of the stomach of the dead woman.

The authorities who are working on the case say they believe the body was stolen by persons who were instrumental in causing the death of the woman. They think the body was taken from the grave in order that the vital organs might be removed and that the fear of an investigation has caused the guilty persons to steal the vital organs of the body.

Both the Loders and Loders assert that there was nothing irregular in the death of Mrs. Tilton, and that they have no idea as to who desecrated her grave. The Loders live less than a half mile from the cemetery, and the toll gate keeper has seen Loder in that vicinity twice within the past week.

Major Payne leans to the belief that the outrage was committed by depraved youths, for a gawsome lark, while others think that some doctor may have wanted the viscera for dissecting, regardless of the fact that the woman had been dead months.

A man named Albert Norton asserts that he has proof that a certain doctor made two men drunk and then got them to dig up the body. "My God, we cut her deep," he quotes one as saying, but he declares he dare not give names.

The Cemetery Association and the county each offer a reward of $100 for information leading to the apprehension of the grave robbers.

Mrs. Louisa Simpkins, daughter of Mrs.
Tilton, arrived at Millville last night from Williamstown, N. J. She said her father was very ill with pain. She said the first she knew of the grave robbery was yesterday morning, when she read about it in the Philadelphia papers.

A FOE TO ROCKEFELLER.
Suit Begun Against the Standard Oil by an Operator Who Declares War to the Knife.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 8.—A big fight against the Standard Oil Company was inaugurated to-day, when Attorney W. L.
Flagg, of New York, and Attorney-General Monroe went before the Supreme Court of this State and asked that the officers of the Standard Oil Company, John D. Rockefeller, Henry M. Flagler and others be held in contempt for proceeding to do business upon a charter that was held to be invalid by the Court on March 2, 1892.

It seems that after the judgment of ousting was given, the oil trust reformed its lines and changed its form in some way and proceeded, much to the chagrin of those who had instituted the suit, just as if nothing had happened. This was the main fact cited to the court in this case and made the basis for the order for contempt against the magnates of the oil company.

Upon its representation an order was issued to President Rockefeller and Vice-President Flagler to appear in court at once. The instigator of the suit is George Rice, of Marketta, an outside oil operator, who claims he will fight the trust until he is driven from the State. The case would have been presented to the court several days ago, but for fear that the court might have its effects upon the elections.

FIRST SNOW UP THE STATE.
Storm at Kingston, and a Heavy Fall in the Catskills.

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Snow fell in this city to-day for the first time this season. There were several heavy snow squalls in the Catskills.

Madagascar in Revolt.
London, Nov. 8.—A special dispatch from Paris says alarming information from the Island of Madagascar has reached the French Colonial Office. Large bands of well armed, disciplined rebels are scouring Madagascar and cutting off isolated French detachments.

and Honduras. Dr. Hunter is one of the Republican leaders of Kentucky.

For Her Daily Bread

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a wonderful aid to working women of all classes.

Working women have backaches, headaches, and racking pains, but they keep on working because they have to.

Pretty faces in our factories and stores soon become drawn and pallid, figures lose their symmetry and energy flags.

Domestic service is another form of endless drudgery that destroys woman's health and nervous system.
Lack of care during monthly periods, necessity to keep on the feet all day and sometimes until late at night, or sitting in cramped positions for long hours, produce and keep alive troubles of all kinds with the female organs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for over twenty years has assisted women to bear their burdens. Sickness and pain vanish under its influence, and more than a million women have been benefited by it. We quote from three:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to thank you for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Before writing to you I was troubled with backache, pains in my left side and leucorrhoea. Often I have cried and wondered if I would ever be well again. I have now taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used one package of your Sanative Wash, and I feel like a new person. I hope that my few words will lead those who suffer as I did to try your remedies and be cured.—Miss LAURA THOMPSON, 41 Reed St., North Cambridge, Mass.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was troubled with female weakness, irregular and painful menstruation and leucorrhoea. The doctor's medicine did me no good. I have taken one bottle and a half of your Vegetable Compound, and thanks to your medicine and advice, my pains are gone. I advise all women suffering as I have to use your Vegetable Compound.—Miss EMMA J. BAILEY, Indianapolis, Ill.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I wrote to you I was troubled with menses appearing too often. I also had sick headache, was tired and weak, and could not do any work. The pain I had to suffer was almost unbearable at times. After taking five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was much improved in health; menses became more regular and were not profuse. My doctor had told me I could never expect to get well unless I went through an operation. I cannot recommend your medicine too highly. I beg of you to accept my thanks for what you have done for me.—Miss ALICE PARNELL, Keokuk, Ia.

Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., will advise you from her wide experience free of charge whenever you ask it. Write to her freely.
Your story will be told to a sympathetic woman, and women only will see your letters. Remember! a woman best understands a woman's ills.
